

Four Shillings Short

Written by Elizabeth Barrett
Friday, 11 March 2011 15:17 -

CELTIC MUSIC: Four Shillings Short, composed of Aodh Óg Ó Tuama (left) who is originally from Cork, Ireland, and Christy Martin of San Diego, CA, entertained Gothenburg Public School students March 2 and performed for the public that evening in the performing arts center. Ó Tuama plays the Irish tin whistle and Martin performs on a hammered dulcimer. The California-based couple describes themselves as traveling musicians who play music from Ireland, Scotland, England, America, Medieval Europe and India, and tell about the different instruments they use. More information is available www.art.net/4ss.