

Farm chore relays prove who's best

Written by Elizabeth Barrett
Friday, 21 September 2012 15:00 -

Lauer boys come out on top

Temperatures hovered near 90 degrees Saturday afternoon when a crowd gathered for the third annual farm chore relay.

The event, which has drawn a larger audience yearly, is sponsored by the Gothenburg Chamber of Commerce ag committee.

Competition was hot as well.

But when the dust settled, literally, the Lauer Boys—Matt, Lance, Chris and Aaron—couldn't be beat.

Five teams competed against the clock in corn shucking, hay-bale pushing, setting irrigation tubes, gathering eggs, goat milking and drinking and backing trailers.

Three members of the four-member teams rode on trailers to various locations to perform the chores.

One team member drove a four-wheeler, often at frenzied speeds, to each location.

Farm chore relays prove who's best

Written by Elizabeth Barrett

Friday, 21 September 2012 15:00 -

Many people are participating in the relay, and the event is a popular one. The participants are seen riding their vehicles around the track, and the atmosphere is one of friendly competition. The event is held on a dirt track, and the participants are wearing safety gear. The relay is a fun and challenging activity for people of all ages, and it is a great way to spend time outdoors. The participants are seen riding their vehicles around the track, and the atmosphere is one of friendly competition. The event is held on a dirt track, and the participants are wearing safety gear. The relay is a fun and challenging activity for people of all ages, and it is a great way to spend time outdoors.