

Cool job

Written by Elizabeth Barrett
Friday, 10 May 2013 14:21 -

EASY DOES IT: Dudley first-grade teacher Blake Erickson sits in a special chair used to perform maintenance on windmills. The chair is attached to a pump setter truck owned and operated by Richeson Well Service. Joe Richeson (below), general manager of the business, was invited by first graders to tell about his job during a study of “cool jobs.” Others in the community, such as a physician’s assistant, also came in to tell about careers.