Amanda McMichael of Gothenburg was installed as honored queen of Job's Daughters International Bethel #28 last Saturday.

Officers were also installed that included Alexis Bacon, senior princess; Kyndal Holmes, junior princess; Kendra Humphrey, guide and Carlin Daharsh, marshal.

Appointed officers installed were Blayr McMichael, chaplain; Becca Else, recorder; Sonie Kuhlman, treasurer; Megan Portiner, fifth messenger; Stephanie Eggleston, senior custodian and Kelsey Holmes, junior custodian.

Presiding as installing officer was Becca Else, past honored queen and supreme recorder. She was assisted by Taci Bartlett, Kyra Holloway-Maline, Heidi Galas, Leah Rieke, Jeanne Breuer, Stephanie Eggleston and Lori Long.

Emily McMichael served as mistress of ceremonies and Trevor Galas assisted with flowers.

The theme was "You've got a Friend." Bright pink and lime green were colors displayed with a flamingo as mascot during McMichael's term.

A special masonic Bible was used for the ceremony that was given to McMichael by her great uncle Dean Ramsey. Her grandfather Max Weismann carved her gavel.
