Exposure provided baseline for improvement.

COZAD—Some might think it's simply crazy for high school wrestlers to compete three straight days to start the season.

Gothenburg wrestling coach Eric Manstedt admits he might be a little nutty but finishing a three-day stint at the Cozad Invite on Saturday gave the Swedes a realistic view of themselves.

"I wanted to see what we're made of," Manstedt said. "Some kids were dog tired Saturday and a few looked a little rough in a couple of rounds but it definitely revealed our strengths and weaknesses."

Eight Swedes earned medals as the Gothenburg team finished sixth of 15.

Mitch Spiegel at 103 pounds and Tanner Schwanz at 119 were runners-up in their classes.

Dane Ehlers finished third at 285, Chris Hyde and Tommy France were each fifth at 135 and 215 while Dillon Larson, Justin Larson and Bryce Eggleston brought home sixth-place medals at 112, 125 and 130 respectively.

"It was a tough tournament," Manstedt said. "Gretna, Aurora and Adams Central are likely to be rated in Class B sometime throughout the season."

Those teams placed first, second and third in the meet, respectively.

The exposure to stiff competition and the atmosphere of such a large meet were beneficial to Manstedt's wrestlers.

"It showed us that we're goers and we don't quit," the coach said. "It also revealed that we need to revise some technical things but it turned out just how I'd expected."

The Swedes travel to Columbus Friday and Saturday for the Nebraska Duals.

Manstedt said there is potential for 10 matches at each weight.

Wrestling begins at 3 p.m. Friday and 8 a.m. on Saturday at Platte Community College.
