

Eagles use Cozad meet to try events

Written by Deb Egenberger

Thursday, 04 April 2013 13:46 - Last Updated Thursday, 04 April 2013 13:48

COZAD—With overlapping activities last week, the Eagle boys used the Cozad Triangular on March 26 as a glorified practice.

Because the number of entries per event was not limited, Brady coach Rich Britten said he was able to let participants try new things.

The girls did not compete because they were all involved in a music contest that day.

“It gave us a chance to work out on a track,” Britten said.

Event champions included Bryley Roper in the 400-meter dash and long jump, Kaleb Arterburn in the 3200-meter run and the 4x400 relay.