

Library offers books to help holiday shoppers

Written by Gothenburg Times
Wednesday, 27 November 2013 18:38 -

Brady area residents who have book lovers on their Christmas gift list can get some help from the Brady Public Library.

The library is planning to let people pick from available books and make a free-will donation to the library. The event is planned for Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Coffee and tea will be served.

The selection will include duplicates of books that the library has received from generous patrons. The collection will include topics such as cooking, health, diet, fiction, biographies, western paperbacks, romance, mystery and interior decorating, as well as books for children. A complete set of encyclopedia for reference information will also be available.

Library volunteers will be assist with the browsing.